To invite others to host their own Virtual Community Screening

We are rightfully concerned about the effects of plastic pollution in our global community. To spread awareness of this environmental and human rights threat, I'm participating in the grassroots screening tour of The Story of Plastic, a documentary by The Story of Stuff Project. The film is a seething expose uncovering the ugly truth behind the current global plastic pollution crisis. Striking footage shot over three continents illustrates the ongoing catastrophe: fields full of garbage, veritable mountains of trash; rivers and seas clogged with waste; and skies choked with the poisonous runoff from plastic production and recycling processes with no end in sight. Original animations, interviews with experts and activists, and never-before-filmed scenes reveal the disastrous consequences of the flood of plastic smothering ecosystems and poisoning communities around the world – and the global movement rising up in response.

You can now screen the film via an in-person or virtual screening for your community, campus, or classroom – visit <https://www.storyofstuff.org/storyofplastic/>

To invite guests to your virtual community screening

Hi friend,

I'm emailing to invite you to a [public or private] screening and conversation, happening [Insert Date & Time]. If already RSVP'd: Thank you for RSVPing for our THE STORY OF PLASTIC screening and conversation [Insert Date & Time]

As you know, COVID-19 has impacted in-person events taking place this spring. However, we have found a virtual solution. In this unprecedented moment, it's critical to ensure the voices of activists and marginalized communities are heard to stand up to big oil and businesses perpetuating the plastic crisis. Stories and film have a unique ability to bridge divides and bring us together as part of something bigger than ourselves – to connect us and create empathy during perilous times. The Story of Plastic takes a sweeping look at the man-made crisis of plastic pollution and the worldwide effect it has on the health of our planet and the people who inhabit it

To that end, we hope The Story of Stuff's new film The Story of Plastic serves as a tool to foster connection, spark dialogue, and create action.

You are invited to attend a viewing and conversation:

What: The Story of Plastic [95 minutes]
